

This Sole Composition version of the Oregon Native was taken from the same blend of seven casks that comprise the rest of the 2018 vintage but was bottled and corked still. Not simply a flat beer, the Sole Composition release is a new way to experience the Oregon Native - by cutting out the bottle conditioning process and its associated changes, aromas and flavors that are otherwise obscured suddenly come to the forefront where the line between beer and wine disappears. This bottling is ready to drink now but suitable for cellaring up to two years.
